CSS Krankenversicherung AG, a major Swiss health insurance company based in Lucerne, has awarded COR AG Insurance Technologies the order for developing a partner management system. With a total of 1.0 million people insured and a market share of about 15 percent, CSS is one of the leaders in its field in Switzerland. The necessary contracts have already been signed.

The partner management system is being developed on the basis of state-of-the-art software architectures and takes into account all the standards that apply to modern software development.

The volume of this order amounts to more than EUR1 million. CSS intends to commission COR AG to implement other components as well with which to administer its portfolio of health insurance policies.
